Probable Cause Statement

I, Samuel James Martinsen, am a United States ("U.S.") Department of Interior National Park Service Law Enforcement Ranger. I have been employed with the U.S. Department of Interior as a Law Enforcement Ranger since August 1990. I am currently assigned to American Memorial Park on Saipan, in the Northern Mariana Islands, a U.S. Commonwealth.

At approximately 9:30 a.m. on Wednesday, September 12, 2007, while on patrol at the Outer Cove Marina (within the boundaries of American Memorial Park, a U.S. National Park), I saw a green Chevrolet Pickup being driven by Prisco ONGRUNG, a/k/a Prisco Omgrung. I had given Mr. ONGRUNG several warnings in the past for operating his vehicle without a current Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands ("CNMI") driver license.

On the above date I was leaving the Outer Cove Marina area, when I saw Mr.

ONGRUNG driving into that area. The posted speed limit is 10 mph, and I believed Mr.

ONGRUNG to be driving faster than that. I turned around and followed him to a parking spot. I then parked my patrol vehicle and walked to his driver-side door. When I arrived I asked him if he had gotten his CNMI driver license yet. Mr. ONGRUNG answered, "No."

Mr. ONGRUNG went on to tell me that he had a court hearing on September 20, 2007. I reminded him that when I had contacted him about 3 to 4 weeks ago, he said that he would have his license within two weeks. I had given him verbal warnings after my past two or more contacts. On September 12, 2007, I told Mr. ONGRUNG that I would not give him a warning. I told him that I would instead issue a citation to him and that if he came to court with a valid CNMI driver license, I would ask the judge to dismiss the case.

I then returned to my vehicle and began to write the citation. As I was writing, Mr. ONGRUNG started to walk away (in a northerly direction). I told him to stop. He turned around and asked me why I was harassing him. I told him that I wasn't harassing him, but that I could no longer overlook his violation of driving without a driver license. Mr. ONGRUNG turned away from me and began walking in a northerly direction once again. I ordered him to stop, but he refused to acknowledge my command. I left my vehicle, called for backup and pursued him. When I caught up with Mr. ONGRUNG, I walked by his side while telling him repeatedly to stop.

Despite the above commands to stop, Mr. ONGRUNG continued to disregard my commands. I told him that if he didn't stop, then he was only going to be in more trouble. Again he ignored my command to stop. As we walked, I positioned myself in front of him. Using my right forearm, I placed it on his upper left-shoulder area. At that time, Mr. ONGRUNG swung a fanny pack that he was carrying and forcefully hit me on the right side of my face. I could feel blood running down my face as I backed away. I told him to put the fanny pack down, but Mr. ONGRUNG refused to do so.

After Mr. ONGRUNG's refusal to comply with my command to put the fanny pack down, I drew my service weapon, pointed it at him and again ordered him to put the pack down. He said, "Shoot me." As I collected my thoughts, I holstered my weapon, grabbed his fanny pack, and pulled it from his grasp. A struggle ensued, but I was finally able to take Mr. ONGRUNG to the ground. Manuel Muna, an American Memorial Park maintenance employee, ran to my assistance as I was struggling with Mr. ONGRUNG. Mr. Muna then
